All Filipino Horses and Baggage Secured by Col. Bell's Regiment.

TAKES FLORIDABLANCO

One American Was Killed and Two Were Wounded In This Advance.

BATSON DRIVES INSURGENTS FROM POSITION.

This Engagement Near Saragossa Was Severe.—The Enemy's Loss Was Heavy.—Lieut. Boutell Was Killed and One Scout Wounded.—Thirteen Brass Cannons and 800 One Pound Projectiles Taken at the Capture of Taluera.—Encouraging News From Philippine War.

Manila, Nov. 3.—[Special Cablegram to The Gazette].—Floridablanca has been captured by Bell's regiment. The battalion is now stationed there as a garrison. The rest of the regiment pursued a body of Filipinos into the mountains and captured their horses and baggage. Col. Bell reports that this entirely destroys the insurgent cavalry force.

One American killed and two wounded in this advance. An attempt to ambush Col. Batson's scouts between Santiago and Saragossa was frustrated by Batson's effective work. He ordered a charge and took the rebel position. The enemy's loss was severe. Lieutenant Boutell was killed and one scout wounded.

At the capture of Taluera the arsenal of thirteen small brass cannon and eight hundred one pound projectiles fell into the hands of the Americans.

Will Ask Congress to Act. Washington, Nov. 3.—President McKinley will probably outline the Philippine policy, at least far enough to ask congress for a specific declaration as to the status of the islands. The treaty of peace ceded the Philippines outright to the United States, but congress has not yet accepted them, inasmuch as the treaty was ratified by the senate alone, and the status of the islands has, therefore, never been fixed by statute law. It is believed by the members of the Philippine commission that a formal declaration by congress annexing the islands in general terms to the United States will do more than almost anything else to break down Aguinaldo's position. He has told his followers there was still a chance that the United States might abandon the Philippines, and it is to contradict this statement that the president will ask for congressional enactment putting the Philippines by law under the control of the executive department.

Towns Occupied by Americans. Manila, Nov. 3.—The Americans occupy Iloilo and the adjoining towns of Jaro and Molo with 4,000 men. The insurgent force is now supposed to be between 500 and 5,000 armed men and many more unarmed. Their lines are about 900 yards from Jaro, which is occupied by the Twenty-sixth regiment. The insurgents are supposed to have five smooth-bore cannon. For a long time past they have been building trenches between Jaro and their stronghold, Santa Barbara, eight miles north.

Wait for Congressional Action. Manila, Nov. 3.—Aguinaldo has issued a proclamation announcing that the American congress will meet in December to decide whether "the imperialist policy" and "this bloody work" are to be continued. He exhorts his soldiers to conduct themselves so that congress will consider them worthy of independence, and requests the priests to abstain from politics and to redeem the church from the bad name the misdeeds of the friars have given it.

WHAT FILIPINOS WANT

Report From London of a Proposition They Will Submit to U. S.

London, Nov. 3.—[Special Cablegram to The Gazette].—The highest Filipino authority in Europe has issued a statement in which it says that the Filipinos will informally submit to the United States: If the Filipinos are given a government similar to Canada until a greater measure of self government is permissible, the United States is to have every facility which the islands offer as a base of political and commercial operations and the Americans to have all the privileges of native Filipinos.

GAVE HALSEY A RECEPTION

Former Janesville Divine Heartily Received at Fond du Lac. The Rev. Sabin Halsey, D. D., was given a most hearty welcoming reception to his new pastoral work at Fond du Lac Monday evening. Several hundred were present to greet Dr. Halsey and his family and the reception itself was an event of charming sociability, rendered doubly so by the genial personality of the new pastor and the presence of nearly all the protestant ministers of the city. The guests were received in a lecture room, which had been tastefully decorated and arranged for the occasion. Dr. and Mrs. Halsey, daughter, Miss Ethel Halsey, and Miss Ward, a sister of Mrs. Halsey, were well pleased.

NO DOUBT AT ALL ABOUT OHIO ELECTION

PRES. M'KINLEY'S STATE SURE TO GO REPUBLICAN.

Golden Rule Jones' Vote Will Be Very Much of a Disappointment to Him—Result the Coming Fall Elections Will Have On the Democratic Party.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Among the callers at the White House today was William Hahn, formerly National Committeeman from Ohio, who gave the president an accurate review of the situation in the state. After leaving the President he said:

"There is not a particle of doubt about Ohio. There is no more question than there is about Iowa. Ohio is a republican state. Every manufacturing establishment in the state is running to its full capacity and it is impossible to get workmen. Jones will receive about 60,000 votes and Nash will be elected by a plurality of from 80,000 to 40,000. Both branches of the legislature will be republican. Jones will find there is much difference between running for mayor of Toledo and governor of Ohio."

Democrats are extremely anxious as to the outcome of the elections next Tuesday in Maryland, Ohio, Kentucky, Iowa, Nebraska and New York. They are speculating on the probable effect of the results in these states on the political situation next year. The democratic leaders in those states hold frequent communication with the managers of the national affairs of the party. The big men admit that the decision of the people in Ohio, Maryland, New York, Kentucky, Nebraska and Iowa will have much influence on the constitution of the democratic platform in 1900.

Maryland and New York democrats in their state conventions ignored the 16 to 1 proposition entirely, while Ohio, Kentucky and Nebraska endorsed all the vagaries of the Chicago platform. Now, if the democrats should win in Maryland and New York and lose in Ohio and Nebraska, the eastern democrats would point to the fact as a vindication of their policy and would insist on 16 to 1 being left out of the platform next year. Even if Nebraska were to be carried for the fusion ticket, but by a reduced majority, it could be held by the easterners that the free silver idea had lost its hold and influence on the people and should be dropped. If, on the other hand, Ohio should go democratic and the fusionists should carry Nebraska by increased majorities, the radicals will contend that the Chicago platform must be adhered to if the party expects to win in 1900.

ATTACK OF WEAKNESS

Vice President Hobart Had a Relapse Last Night—Better This Morning.

Patterson, Nov. 3.—[Special Telegram to The Gazette].—Vice President Hobart's physician issued the following bulletin this morning:

"The vice president passed a good night until 2 o'clock, when he had an attack of weakness, but rallied after the administration of medicine. Since 5 o'clock his pulse has been stronger and he is now in a fair condition."

Although Vice President Hobart appeared more cheerful this morning than at any time since his illness began it was noticed by those who were privileged to enter his bedchamber that he was steadily growing weaker, and it is evident that the end is only a question of a short time. His constitution is too feeble to withstand another severe attack, and it is thought that he will linger in his present condition until the fatal relapse occurs.

Antwerp, Nov. 3.—[Special Cablegram to The Gazette].—An appalling accident happened here today. While the landing stage of a railway ferry was crowded with people the stage collapsed throwing the crowd into the water.

Twenty persons are known to have been drowned and a great many seriously injured.

AMERICA TO RULE THE FILIPINOS

National Commission Unanimous For Retention of the Islands.

REPORTS TO M'KINLEY REEK WITH STRENGTH

INSURGENTS MUST SUBMIT TO CONTROL OF THE U. S.

Government From Washington Held to Be the Archipelago's Only Salvation—Aguinaldo's Main Object Is Not Liberty, But Continuance of His Own Arbitrary Power.—At Present the Natives Are Not Capable of Governing Themselves—Results of Official Investigation Made Public.

Washington, Nov. 3.—"If we withdraw from the Philippines anarchy and intervention of other powers will follow. American occupation is the only salvation of the islands. This is recognized by many Filipinos, even insurgents, but these latter want to control the revenues while we take the responsibilities. National honor forbids any effort to escape our responsibilities. Our control is the only thing that stands for peace and order and progress. It is the only guarantee against dismemberment. In the language of a prominent Filipino, 'Give us peace and prosperity and we will become more American than the Americans themselves.'"

It is a Unanimous Report

These are a few of the expressions used by the Philippine commissioners in their preliminary report, which was handed to the president by the four members of the commission last evening. The gentlemen visiting the White House for that purpose. It is a unanimous report, signed by all the members of the commission now in this country. No more important document bearing upon the policies and future of this country has come to light in recent years. It is a paper which will occupy a place in history. It presents facts and conclusions which will, it is believed, put an end to the mistaken insurrection of opinion in this country, which is now the only support of the vicious insurrection of force against which American authority is contending.

Aguinaldo Tricky and Treacherous.

As significant as any other part of their statement is the character which the commissioners give Aguinaldo, the head and front of the insurrection. Instead of being a patriot, a great champion of freedom, a second George Washington, he is pictured and convicted as a miserable, shifting, tricky, treacherous, murderous upstart. The idol of the Atkinsons is sadly fallen. "The primary object of his struggle," say the commissioners, "is not liberty but a continuance of his own arbitrary power."

Most important too, is the conclusion which the commissioners reach as to the capability of Filipinos for self government. At the present time the people are not prepared for it, say the commissioners, after a most thorough investigation.

Substance of the Report.

The report is in substance as follows: The commission says this government owes it to the family of nations, to the friendly Filipinos, and to the honor of the flag to remain in the Philippines, and there is no course except to prosecute the war until the insurgents are reduced to submission.

Speaking of the ability of the Filipinos to govern themselves, the commission says the Filipinos are not a nation, but a variegated assemblage of different tribes, and their loyalty is still of the tribal type. Popular government cannot exist until education has elevated the masses, broadened their intellectual horizon and disciplined their faculties of judgment. Even the power of self-government cannot be assumed without considerable previous training and experience under the guidance of an enlightened and liberal sovereign power.

The commission is of opinion the insurrection prior to 1896 did not amount to anything, and was started with a hope of relief from intolerable abuses rather than the hope of independence. The Spanish government saw it would require 100,000 men to subdue the rebellion, and decided to purchase Aguinaldo. This was done, with the result with which the reading public is familiar.

It is also clearly shown by a memorandum submitted by Admiral Dewey that no alliance of any kind was entered into with Aguinaldo by Admiral Dewey or any one, no promises of independence being made at any time. April 24, 1898, the consul-general at Singapore wired Admiral Dewey that Aguinaldo was there and would go to Hongkong and arrange with the naval

BOTH MEN IN TRIM FOR BATTLE

Sharkey and Jeffries Ready For Encounter at Coney Island Tonight.

GIANT PITTED AGAINST GIANT IN A FISTIC FIGHT.

Intense Interest All Over the Country In the Event Scheduled For Tonight—Both the Contestants in Fine Condition and Each is Confident He Will Win—Jeffries a Favorite In the Betting—A Great Thrill Expected In the Arena—A Fortune In It—A Knock-out Sure to Follow.

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special Cablegram to The Gazette].—Everything is in readiness for tonight's great fight at the Coney Island club rooms. Sporting men are arriving on every train and there is promise that the attendance will exceed that of any contest in the history of pugilism. The betting continues to fluctuate between ten to eight and ten to seven on Jeffries. Very few bets were made this morning.

The rumor that Jeffries is out of condition is as strong this morning as ever. His manager, however, positively insists that he would not allow Jeffries to enter the ring if he was not in condition. The champion arose early this morning. He was in the best of health and spirits and supremely confident of victory. He took things easy today. He will remain in the hotel here until this evening when he will go to Coney Island and rest until called for the fight.

Sharkey was up with the larks this morning at New York and went out for an hour's run. He came back with rosy cheeks, but with no signs of puffing as a result of his exercise.

New York, Nov. 3.—The emperor of Muscle and the duke of Thews fight tonight for a crown that is worth more than many political royalties. They are fit to fight for such a prize. To look on them is a feast for anybody with an eye for the beauty of strength. Jeffries and Sharkey—power and might—they reek with strength. There has not been a championship fight like this one in the later days of the prize ring. There have been giants pitted against giants, Goliaths against Goliaths and adepts against adepts, but here are two men of force unprecedented, and one of them at least has shown greater skill than the most skillful ring general this generation knew until last summer. Both are trained to a condition as far beyond the form of the ordinary man as the knowledge of Edison is beyond the ken of the ordinary engineer.

Trained for Mighty Combat.

Unstinted time, unstinted money and all the science of preparation has been expended to make these men fit to face each other, and when they meet the shock will shake a world in their world.

Jeffries is a young Hercules, whose massive body is only symmetrical with the columns that are his legs and the beams that are his arms. Sharkey has none of the symmetry. His buffalo chest, his furious front, his matchless endurance, his long ring experience and the positive, active love of fight, are his credentials to the court of champions.

Jeffries is a fighter by virtue of the accident of his physical endowment. Sharkey is a fighter by virtue of his mental trend. If he was a weak man instead of a marvel of force he would be a fighter none the less. His brawn merely makes him successful when otherwise he would be a failure.

Jeffries has no love for fighting. He does it because he can and because of the money and fame. Sharkey never knows greater ecstasy than when bloody and raging, he is dealing the hardest blows ever given in the ring. If prize fighting is to be allowed tonight's battle will be its perfection.

Battle for Championship.

These men meet for the world's championship. Jeffries has held it but a few months. He has had a mere taste of the honor and adulation of the position. He will struggle as long as he can raise a hand to retain it. Sharkey has fought his way through reputations beyond number for a chance at a goal that is as much to him as the presidency of the United States to a politician. How he will strive to win may be deduced from that.

The championship is worth in money anything. It earned $500,000 for John L. Sullivan and either of these men is as capable as he to turn the opportunity into gold. So a great fortune hangs in the balance while these two gladiators are in the ring—and if it was not for the prize ring these two men would be as poor as a blacksmith in a small town and a sailor in the navy. Whatever the enlightened spirit of the age may think of it, the center of interest in the Anglo-Saxon world, will be tonight in the roped-off square of the Coney Island club, and ninety-nine men out of every 100 in the United States and England would be there if they could.

Dixon Beats the Englishman.

New York, Nov. 3.—George Dixon, feather-weight champion of the world, more than held his own last night against Will Ourlay of England, and after fighting twenty-five rounds, many of which were rather tame, the American was declared the winner and no one complained. Ourlay is a clever, game boy, but Dixon is a little bit cleverer and none the less game.

KIMBERLEY TAKEN RUMOR IN BERLIN

ALSO THAT CECIL RHODES HAS COMMITTED SUICIDE.

It Lacks Confirmation, However—Paris Figaro Speculates Upon What It Calls An Anglo-German-American Alliance—It Causes the Kaiser Alarm.

Berlin, Nov. 3.—[Special Cablegram to The Gazette].—It is reported on the Bourse here that Kimberley has fallen and that Cecil Rhodes has committed suicide. There was great rejoicing among the anti-English over the rumor, which however lacks confirmation. Joubert says it is inhuman.

London, Nov. 3.—[Special Cablegram to The Gazette].—A delayed dispatch from Ladysmith says that Joubert protested to White against the use of Liddell shells fired from the big naval guns as inhuman. The wires to Ladysmith have been cut by the Boers. This is taken as a bad omen for Gen. White's forces.

Anglo-American-German Alliance.

Paris, Nov. 3.—[Special Cablegram to The Gazette].—The Figaro says that England has played to well on American gratitude by her action during the Spanish war, that now if Europe intervened in the Transvaal an American fleet would put in its appearance on the coast of Africa. "This," says the Figaro, "is the Kaiser's nightmare, and is the reason for the great German naval increase." "But the British," the paper says, "hopes this increase is made in view of an Anglo-American-German alliance."

DRUMONT DIPS HIS PEN IN GALL

Bitter Invective From a Paris Editor Against Great Britain.

Paris, Nov. 3.—Edward Drumont, editor of the anti-Semite Libre Parole, has dipped his pen in gall and has written one of his bitterest articles on England. He says:

"The English must now be conscious of the sensation of 'Joy' which is felt throughout the world over the news of her defeat."

"What scamp are these ferocious pharisees, who insulted the French officers at Rennes in the name of civilization and humanity, and who day after day ask a blessing on this most outrageous attempt of modern times to crush a harmless people!"

The defeat of General White, Drumont asserts, has given Frenchmen new hope and faith in God as the protector of the weak. Mr. Chamberlain, he says, has sacrificed thousands of lives to save a chartered company and Queen Victoria comes in for a stream of abuse. "That sovereign, now eighty years old, with one foot in the grave," continues Drumont, "will soon be as blind as old King Lear, and half-paralyzed; already enveloped in the twilight of eternal night, she has dared to sign a declaration of war."

"England, the nation of man eaters and bullies, is weak and craven toward the strong."

KEMPTON TO EXPOSE VICE

He Says That Gambling Resorts Are Numerous In Janesville.

HE HAS THE EVIDENCE

It Has Been Collected By Business Men Who Were Posted.

LETTERS THAT CONTAIN CERTAIN STATEMENTS.

The Baptist Preacher Will Make Public the Facts in a Series of Sermons Which He Calls the Seven Greatest Sins of Janesville—Gambling and Intemperance Leads Them All, But the Five Others Will Be Duly Considered—At Each Sermon Letters Will Be Read Bearing Upon the Sin Under Consideration.

Rev. A. C. Kempton, pastor of the Baptist church, is of the opinion that in Janesville there are seven great sins that need airing. He has also made up his mind that the best method of revealing these seven sins to the public is to preach them from the pulpit.

Next Sunday evening at the Baptist church, the first reform gun will be fired. Following are the seven sins to be spoken of:

Intemperance, the Mother of Crime. Gambling. Licentiousness. Sabbath Desecration. Profanity and Gossip. Moral Cowardice. Dishonesty and Hypocrisy.

For more than a year Rev. Mr. Kempton has been diligently asking "What are the chief sins of Janesville?" In response to letters in which this question was asked he has received answers from lawyers, judges, teachers, merchants, doctors, christian workers, policemen and others. They have voted that the sins named are the greatest sins of our city. These sins will be treated in seven sermons. One of these letters without the name of the writer will be read each Sunday evening.

Evidence of a Startling Nature.

The letters that Rev. Mr. Kempton has received dealing with the sins contain evidence of a startling nature.

The one sin that will be freely aired from the pulpit will touch on the subject of gambling.

Such evidence is said to be on hand that clearly demonstrates that poker playing is being carried on in Janesville every day and night in the year in places that exist for no other purpose. And poker is not the only game that is entitled to a place under the head of gambling.

In the rear of certain business places card playing is alleged to be carried on in wholesale style. Evidence that leaves no doubt is said to have been secured of late by those who have been looking up this subject. Certain church members say that even slot gambling machines are allowed to flourish in certain saloons in spite of the fact that there is a strict law on this question.

Society ladies of the city who hold card parties and play for prizes are also said to be included by the committee to whom was consigned the work of gathering evidence. When the subject of gambling is handled evidence is likely to be revealed that will involve several in Janesville to the extent of causing their arrest.

"I will commence these seven sermons next Sunday evening when I will take up the subject of Intemperance, the Mother of Crime. I don't intend to have these sermons sensational in any way, but they will all be based on gathered facts. Each Sunday I will read letters from certain local men who know whereof they speak on the topics they handle. I shall not read their names," said the Rev. Mr. Kempton.

CLINTON CREAMERY
IS PROSPEROUSFARMERS GET $1.00 FOR 100 POUNDS OF MILK.

Hallowe'en Mischief Get In Their Funny Work—Officers of the Clinton Cemetery Association—Newspaper Makes a Display of Benevolence—Rock County News Notes.

Clinton, Wis., Nov. 3.—The payments of the Clinton creamery have reached the dollar mark, that sum being the amount given the farmers for 100 pounds of milk. During the first half of October the factory received 152,019 pounds of milk which made 7155 pounds of butter and sold for $1682.16. The price of butter fat was 25c.

A Hallowe'en party "got in some practice work" on the night of the 30th out at James Black's. In the morning it was discovered that all the farming implements belonging to the place were in the highway in front of the house. The driveway leading out was also blocked with machinery. A farm horse taken from the barn materially aided in the midnight sport.

All but $40 of the $350 necessary for the yearly expense of the Y. M. C. A. has been raised.

At the annual meeting of the Clinton Cemetery association the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—C. A. Salisbury. Treasurer—J. R. Helmer. Secretary—S. S. Northrop. Sexton—A. W. Strong.

The report shows a balance on hand in the treasury of $442.49. James Irish and J. R. Helmer were re-elected trustees for a term of three years.

The work on Milwaukee street, west of Church street, has been completed this week and is a job that is a credit to Commissioner Northway.

The "Herald" wants the Clinton schools to own their own organs and generously offers, in its last issue to donate some printing to help pay for the same. The fact that the publishers of its contemporary are receiving rent from the school for organs now in use may have something to do with the Herald editor's sudden display of benevolence.

A dancing class for young people has been organized here, the first meeting being held at the hall on Friday evening last.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—George W. Hinman, managing editor of the Inter Ocean; M. B. Madden, John J. Ryan, Joseph Sullivan, Richard Croake and George P. Gubbens were indicted by the grand jury yesterday for criminal libel and conspiracy, and each defendant's bonds were fixed at $2,500. Herman H. Kohlsatt, owner and editor of the Times-Herald and the Chicago Evening Post, is the complaining witness. The indictments are based upon an article published in the Sunday Inter Ocean, Oct. 13, signed by all the men named except Mr. Hinman. The article attacked Mr. Kohlsatt, calling him an embezzler and a defaulter.

No Home Rule for Detroit.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 3.—The Supreme court Thursday afternoon declared the so-called Elkhoff home-rule law for the city of Detroit unconstitutional. The grounds upon which the law was declared void were that it undertook to confer general legislative powers upon a municipality, contrary to the provisions of the constitution.

Milton, Wis., Nov. 3, 1899.

Babcock and Church have finished the repairs on the big well of the Milwaukee road at this station. They put down an eight foot tub four feet and a four foot inside the larger one to a depth of eight feet, giving a supply of seven feet of water. With a steam pump that can raise two or three hundred barrels of water an hour there ought to be a sufficient supply to satisfy the thirst of all the iron horses that come.

Rev. Dr. Lewis of Plainfield, N. J., will speak at the Seventh Day Baptist church tomorrow, Sunday, evening, in the interest of the American Sabbath Tract society, of which he is the secretary.

GERMANY WOULD RULE SAMOA

United States Objects to the Terms of the Proposed Agreement.

Washington, Nov. 3.—It has developed that Germany's proposition for the settlement of the Samoan question was more radical than at first supposed. In the draft of the convention submitted by Germany to Great Britain, Germany proposed that Great Britain should withdraw absolutely from the islands and that the United States should retain Pango-Pango bay only.

This proposition, it is learned, was equivalent to the proposal of a scheme by which Germany would become the sole power in the islands. The United States has objected to the terms of the convention. On its face the agreement purports to contemplate a dual arrangement by which the Samoan group will be controlled by the United States and Germany. As a matter of fact, the proposed convention restricts the United States, as now, to Pango-Pango bay, and if carried out would make Germany the absolute controlling power of the islands. This new phase of the case has produced a complication which will prevent a settlement of the question for some time.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Sadie Stockton was a genuine surprise in her presentation of "Anne of Austria" in "The Three Musketeers" at Myers opera house last night. It was a dignified, well balanced character delineation which deserves the highest praise. Her costumes were elegant and appropriate and her carriage queenly. Grace Hayward as Louisa de la Ferre was as sweet as a picture and much in favor with the large audience present. The rest of the cast made but an indifferent showing, especially Ed Moxley as "Louis XIII" and S. Philleo as "Riche lieu" both of which in the parlance of the gallery were "rotten." Tonight the company will present "The Brand of Cain," a sensational play full of comedy. Special scenery is carried for the production.

Edward Girard and Edward Garvie, two comedians who are well known here will present a new farce entitled "Hunt ing for Hawkins," at the Myers Grand Tuesday of next week, November 7th. It will be remembered that Edward Girard was for many years connected with the firm of Donnelly and Girard, and that Edward Garvie was for several years connected with the Charles Hoyt productions. Both these comedians are capable and clever players.

It is probably some years since so much interest was shown in a theatrical event as is already evinced in the coming of the great Polish actress, Madame Modjeska, one of the three incontestably great women of the world's stage. The worthiest tribute her genius has evoked was paid her by Edwin Booth, who when interviewed during the famous Booth-Modjeska tour, remarked, "I learn something from her every day." The passing years but augment her following and it will never diminish, for art does not grow old. She will appear at the opera house on Tuesday night, Nov. 21.

KANSANS GREET SOLDIERS.

Twentieth Regiment Is Welcomed to Topeka by Thousands.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 3.—One hundred thousand Kansans gave the soldiers of the Twentieth regiment a cordial and enthusiastic welcome home here on Thursday. The great demonstration began at an early hour in the morning upon the arrival of the special trains bearing visitors from all parts of the state. Each train brought a band and its own special brand of enthusiasm. The visitors completely filled Kansas avenue for a distance of ten blocks and kept up a constant and vociferous jubilee.

The parade was fully two miles in length, and it was almost sunset when the reviewing stand at the capitol was reached. Here Chief Justice Foster in a brief speech introduced Gen. J. K. Hudson, who on behalf of the people of Kansas presented the beautiful $1,000 sword to Gen. Funston. In a short speech of acceptance Gen. Funston said he predicted that in one year's time the island of Luzon would be as quiet as Massachusetts. Col. Metcalf followed Gen. Funston in a brief speech. Later in the evening an elaborate banquet was served to the soldiers and officers of the Twentieth. The day closed with a display of fireworks.

Lake Tragedy in Storin.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—The schooner-rigged yacht Chiquita, with a dead man, supposed to be Dr. S. Way, the owner and captain, lashed to the rigging, went ashore in the gale early yesterday morning, three miles east of Miller's Station, Ind. It is believed that all the crew and passengers have perished. Garments found in the cabin indicated that at least one woman was among the unfortunate party on the yacht. Where the vessel belonged has not been ascertained, but it is thought it was from some Michigan port.

May Wed This Month.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Arrangements which have been nearly perfected for the wedding of Admiral Dewey and Mrs. Hazen make it quite certain that the ceremony will take place at the residence of Mrs. Washington McLean, where the admiral was received when he returned to Washington, and that the ceremony will be performed by Archbishop Keane, formerly rector of the Catholic university.

CUBA

She Chats
About the Women of Matanzas.

Their Manners,
Their Vanity and Their Home Life.

MATANZAS, Cuba.—The Cuban woman is complimentary by nature and never makes a disparaging remark about a passerby. Sweet speeches flutter through the sunny air on these narrow streets.

"Look at her hat. Oh, very graceful!"

"How very pretty!"

"Look. How elegant!"

"See that American. In God's name, what white skin!"

"Aye. What a straight back that soldier has!"

This frank, outspoken criticism among a crowd is considered perfectly polite. That the Cuban's mind is on the qu vive for beauty is shown by the following incident:

A young American woman taking an early morning walk saw a middle aged, serious senora, with mantilla and prayer book, returning from mass, a woman she had never seen before. She was surprised when the senora, with the graceful, Cuban gesture of waving the hand from the wrist outward, stopped before her and said:

"You understand Spanish? Then pardon, senorita. I wish to tell you you have a pretty face."

"Thank you," said the stranger, amazed and amused.

"And furthermore," continued the lady, "that little boy who passed you a moment ago told me so when he met me."

"You know the boy?"

"Oh, no," indifferently, "but he told me so that I might see you too."

It is this same eagerness to admire which makes the Cuban and Spaniard stare at every young woman he meets. American women, being curious at present, are particularly favored this way, so much so that their passage on the pavements is sometimes barred while these cigarette smoking, exclamatory epicures take in every detail from crown to toe. At first this seems insulting, and many of these native gentlemen have known how an American woman's eye can flash. But it is explained by the phrase which explains so much that is odd:

"It is the custom."

Staring is to a Cuban girl what honey is to a bee. It is the most delightful part of her evening walk. It makes attendance at church piquant. The more she is looked at and talked about by the men she passes the happier she is. She has a time honored part to play too. Though a man gazes at her open mouthed, as if wondering what glorious star she could possibly have dropped from, she is not supposed to see him. Though he should exclaim into her very ear, "Aye, aye, aye, how beautiful!" she is not supposed to hear him.

But he knows that nothing is lost upon this apparently impassive young woman, who, if this attention were lacking, would seek her mirror miserably on her return home and search for crow's feet.

Here come a quartet of girls out for a morning walk on the shady side of the street, one behind the other on the tiny pavements. This does not prevent the first, who is looking straight ahead, from talking in shrilly, vigorous bursts to the last, who replies as loudly over the heads of the intermediate compan plication of whitewash. This comes from putting on thickly a powder made of pulverized eggshells called cascarillo de huevos.

The mantilla is evidently out of favor with the present generation, at least in this seaport town, where the fashions of other countries are more swiftly adopted. Women past 50 you still see with the fine lace mantilla, or the very poor who drape a piece of bombazine in the national fashion and find it cheaper than the poorest hat.

For the same reason in these harbor cities smoking among young Cuban ladies is obsolete. The grandmother still fingers daintily her cigarette or cigar, and you catch glimpses of her rocking in the big bare parlors and gazing through a haze of smoke at the street.

Two out of every three people you pass are in mourning. Cuba has recent slaughtered and starved hundreds of thousands to grieve for, and the people are most conventional regarding the garb of a mourner. For the same reason the coche rolls past dozens of houses with parlor windows heavily shuttered. These, usually so frankly open, must be closed for four months after a death.

The streets where the refined and once wealthy classes live are quiet always, and through the partially opened doors you catch glimpses of the beautiful interior of these outwardly grim looking Cuban houses—the great patio and fountain with the balconies around it, and the blue sky above the generous square shining upon the very center of the home.

Along the beach which frets the streets on the town's edge are the ruined semicircular houses of exiled aristocrats, with gardens going to waste and beggars housing on the porches.

Parallel with Pica street are the Calles, Gelebert, O'Reilly and Contreras, where, remote from trade, families dwell in dignified seclusion behind barred windows and stablelike doors. Looking down the length of a calle of private casas two impressions are emphatic—the color and the squat effect of the houses. It is unusual to see one with more than a ground floor capped by a pagoda shaped roof of pot tiles, and each flares in a brilliant light color. Pink, fierce blue, lavender and every shade of yellow twinkles down the dazzling space.

The great doors to Cuban houses are forbidding, though painted in one of the most brilliant colors. They rarely stand open. Only half of one panel is unfashioned and allows a quick and secretive appearing ingress or exit. They are really fashioned to serve as house doors and stable doors combined. The Cuban senora returning from her drive is driven into her front hallway, which is of marble and as big as an audience chamber. Here the barouche or volante is kept. The horse finding a convenient corner in the patio. Impoverished Cuba has but few volantes in the front halls now.

There is no glass in the long barred openings into the houses. Sometimes a square of muslin or coarse sackling flaps against the grating and shields the interior. But as this excludes air as well as light Cuban families frankly display to the street many of the intimacies of home life. You may see a baby having his bath, a girl powdering her face, a singer at a piano, a whole family surrounding a traveling merchant in the front parlor. They will pause to watch you go by and make audible remarks about your appearance.

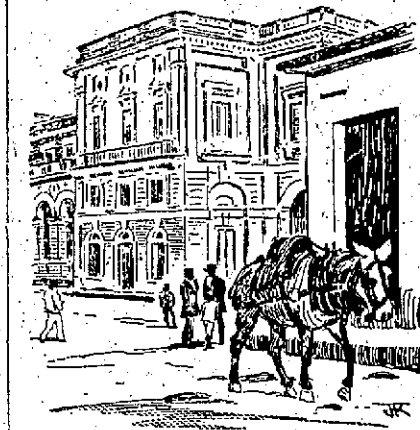

The hilly, cobblestoned byways where the colored population lives has more variety, and color is rampant here. Some of the young mulatto women might pose for Venus in bronze or terra cotta. With barred throat and arms, bright touches from gay beads upon the wrists and bannanna knotted rakishly on the head, they make a delightful ensemble in daring hues consistent with the yellow houses and fierce blue sky. Children whose pretty brown nakedness seems humorous and not at all disconcerting dance like pygmies around the coche wheels.

A little farther on two Jamaica negroes greet each other with loud, playful English oaths which strike the ear strangely after the Spanish exclamations along the line. They end by kissing each other's hands, produce cigars and make themselves comfortable on a corner in a shady spot.

For the first time in 30 years the University of Missouri has a woman member of its faculty. This is Miss Eva Johnston, who was recently installed as assistant professor of Latin.

Think Four Were Killed.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Police and firemen worked hard yesterday in an effort to recover the bodies of the three persons who lost their lives Wednesday evening by the collapse of the walls of the six-story building at 133 and 141 West Lake street. One body was taken from the ruins early in the day. The total number of dead is believed to be four.

To Recruit Men for Cuba.

Washington, Nov. 3.—It is the intention of the secretary of war to recruit to their full strength the five home battalions recently returned from Cuba and send them back to the island to relieve five other battalions now in the Cuban service. To do this it will be necessary to enlist from 1,200 to 1,500 men.

Spaniards Landing in Cuba.

Havana, Nov. 3.—On the Spanish steamer Alfonso XIII., which arrived Thursday, there were 1,175 Spanish immigrants. During the last three months 6,000 Spaniards have arrived here. It is said the Madrid government is assisting the people who wish to take up their residence in Cuba. Very few women are coming.

Dewey Opposes Withdrawal.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Admiral Dewey, when seen after the Philippine commission's report had been handed to the president, said he was personally in hearty accord with the sentiments of the report. He said: "There has never been a time since the first gun was fired that the United States could have withdrawn from the islands, and the reasons set forth in the report as to why permanent American control is essential are, in my opinion, irrefutable. There is no other alternative. That the Tagalos are realizing it is shown in the many desertions from Aguinaldo's ranks. The later advances show a decided improvement in the situation, and I expect an early ending of the war. In fact, I firmly believe that the bottom has dropped out of the insurrection."

Attention is Naturally Excited When Anything is Praised by People Whom We Know.

A thing that stands high in the estimation of the public, and which is especially recommended by Janesville people; naturally excites our attention more than if our own people did not praise the article. Such a thing is going on right here in this city every day. People are praising Morrow's Kid-ne-olds because they cure. There is no deception, no humbug, they do positively cure, and we furnish the evidence.

Mrs. James Close, 8 North street, says:—"I have been troubled with kidney and liver complaint and constipation for a long time. I had severe pains across the small of my back in the region of my kidneys. I was so nervous I could not sleep. My liver was torpid and I suffered from indigestion and had such distressing pains in my stomach. I used different kinds of kidney remedies but did not experience much relief, until I commenced to take Morrow's Kid-ne-olds and Liver-lax. These grand remedies relieved me of all my former troubles."

Morrow's Kid-ne-olds are not pills, but yellow tablets, and sell at fifty cents a box at all drug stores and at The People's Drug Store.

Mailed on receipt of price. Manufactured by John Morrow & Co., chemists, Springfield Ohio.

NOVEMBER TERM CIRCUIT COURT

Bar Calendar Covers Many Cases of Special In-

FIVE CRIMINAL CASES

Next Wednesday Lawyers From All Parts of the County Will Assemble apparently not to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The criminal calendar is not a lengthy one, there being but five cases scheduled. Attorneys from every town in

BIG REDUCTION IN RAILWAY TARIFFS

LOWER FREIGHT RATES FOR 300 BADGER TOWNS.

Railway Commissioner Rice Orders a Sweeping Change From State Points
North of Milwaukee On the Milwaukee and Northwestern Roads—Will the Railways Comply?

Milwaukee, Nov. 3.—Railroad Commissioner Graham L. Rice yesterday transmitted to the Freight bureau of the Chamber of Commerce a copy of the decision on the complaints of rate discrimination filed against the Chicago &
Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee
& St. Paul railroads. The commissioner's decision comprises two orders, one directed to the Milwaukee and the other to the Northwestern railroad, in which the companies are told to reduce their tariffs.

The charges of the unreasonableness and of discrimination in favor of Chicago are therefore sustained. The schedule of rates, however, which the companies are ordered to enforce, do not fully meet the demands of the Milwaukee shippers. It is said that, if complied with, the report means a saving of $5 to $15 a car in shipping to Milwaukee. From Portage alone, the saving will be $13.80 a car.

This, it is conceded, will be of great benefit to Milwaukee, and insure to this city much business which under previous conditions has been forced away from here and directed to Chicago.

The general belief in Milwaukee is that the railroads will comply with the order, and reduce the rates as directed.
The decision is regarded as the most important ever made by a railroad commissioner in the state of Wisconsin and it is expected to create a sensation in railway circles throughout the state.

YALE BALL TEAM CANNOT PLAY HERE

SO SAYS MANAGER BRUGGER OF FOND DU LAC.

Janesville Had Hoped to Secure the Eastern Experts Who Are Coming to Wisconsin—Contract Calls For Three Games—Only One in Badger
State—Trouble May Be Remedied.

Present indications are that the celebrated Yale basket ball team will not play in Janesville this winter. It was hoped that a game could be arranged with the local High school team.

Manager C. H. Brugger, of the Fond-du Lac basket ball team, received an amended contract from Manager Gillespie of the Yale team yesterday, in which it is expressly stipulated that Yale will not play games elsewhere in Wisconsin during the season of 1899-1900, other than the three scheduled in Fond du Lac for December 30 and January 2 and
3. It will cost the Fond du Lac association fully $1,000 to pull off the three games and the management of the team thinks it would be unwise to allow other games to be played in the state.

Local parties interested in securing the Yale team here, say that an effort to remedy the trouble will be made and that if possible a match game will be played in Janesville.

LATEST POINTS IN THE BUILDING OF FUR GARMENTS.

The Ubiquitous Bolero in Evidence.
Long Stole Ends Very Swell—Luxury in Linings—Muffs and Collars. Fur Balls Replace Tails.

London, which has much to say about the building of fur garments, has practically settled the fashions in this direction, and perhaps the least surprising detail in connection with them is the predominance of the bolero.

A spade-fronted bolero in sealskin, with revers and collar of broadtail, is at once replete with elegance and style and is sure to prove itself of good report in the eyes of fashionable women.

PERSIAN LAMB JACKET.

No doubt the immaculate fit of our skirts about the hips has been a large factor in favor of the bolero. It was a wonderful waste to hide from view such positive evidences of sartorial skill.

A fur bolero of supreme novelty and one likely to be applauded by portly personages owns for its chiefest virtue long stole ends in front, which may reach—well, frankly, as long as your purse will permit—to the full length of the figure. If you will. Of course so detached a detail presents itself to the artistic eye as having been specially ordained for the display of linings of rich and attractive character, though that might be said of all furry wraps, which could quite as successfully be worn inside out as in their destined way.

A remnant of the latter end of last season is the chiffon scarf, matching exactly the tone or one of the tones of the fur upon which it forms a decorative feature.

Various smart little coats have been designed, and one of the most becoming models is shown in the first cut—a Persian lamb jacket with chinchilla collar and facings. The sleeves are cut in bell shape at the wrists, so that they can either be turned up like cuffs, or allowed to fall over the hands in very cold weather, and a muff may thus be dispensed with.

The long coat of the second cut is tailor made and is trimmed with mink or other suitable fur. It also has the convenient bell cuffs.

Fur collars can hardly be built too high. Big muffs are likely to have much vogue, but small muffs and rettle arrangements are equally smart. Fur tassels furnish the new adjunct of the season. They consist of round balls of long, soft hair and will replace the too familiar tails of the past. There is much talk of white baby lamb being worn in combination with sealskin.

Colors in Clothesland.
Colors are all bright and consist of automobile, a garret red; lie de vin, copper, emerald green, cream, cronstadt, a true blue, but not so deep as the navy; drab mauve, periwinkle, orange, pastelle blue, a new beige and silver gray. But the colors of the opening season are cronstadt and automobile.

HOME LIFE OF THE BOERS.

Gladys La Tour Describes a Visit to a Transvaal Farmhouse.

I am going to tell you what I saw during a visit which I made some months ago to a Boer farmhouse. It was a typical Transvaal home, and I saw thousands which had the same outward appearance, and which I suppose possessed just about the same kind of interiors.

I expect the good burgher who was my host on that occasion is now out on the frontier fighting against the British. His sturdy sons are probably with him. What the good vrouw and her rosy cheeked daughters are doing I cannot imagine.

The house was a low building of stone, with a corrugated iron roof. Along the front ran the stoep, which is a raised causeway or veranda built also of stones laid one upon another and covered with earth beaten down hard. This is the place whereon a Boer loves to lounge, smoking his eternal pipe and ruminating. Here his good vrouw also brings her knitting of an afternoon.

At the back of the house were two little paddocks inclosed by stone walls loosely put together and a cattle kraal, also of stone, but partly thatched. Two mules were standing in the afternoon sun, winking their long ears. A yoke of oxen browsing at some distance completed the prominent features of the landscape.

We were ushered in by the back entrance through the kitchen. The distinguishing feature of this apartment after the general squalor of the whole was a stout cord stretched across one end, with strips of meat hanging over and tied to it. This was the greater part of a sheep, which I afterward understood was killed the day before. The practice is to cut it all up without any apparent regard to joints in various shapes and sizes, and to hang it in the air or often in the sun to dry. This constitutes the biltong which they use on their journeys or in wartime, and which is said to be most nourishing and sustaining food.

We passed on into the inner room, which was breakfast room, dining room and drawing room combined. It was rather long and narrow, with a deal table, also narrow, and a few wooden chairs. Against one wall was a wooden box, which, with two or three cushions on it, posed as a couch. A small harmonium stood at one end, and in two corners were little cupboards or whatnots, draped with cretonne.

The floor was composed of a mixture of clay and cow dung beaten down hard and firm. I was informed that this kind of floor is considered very good for health. I was introduced to my bedroom, leading out of the dining room, and found it simply but a little more comfortably furnished, muslin curtains to the window, but no blinds.

Supper over, I went to bed. Though wearied with my journey, sleep did not visit my eyelids. A restless feeling came over me, and soon I became aware that the blanket covering me was apparently the camp of armies of insects of the sprightly kind, whence they issued in battalions and attacked me at every vulnerable point.

Morning at length came and with it our breakfast. The strips of meat I had seen on the string in the kitchen the day before now appeared on the table, cooked evidently in a frying pan. This with Boer bread and butter, tea and coffee furnished our frugal meal. I chose coffee, but immediately afterward fervently wished I had asked for tea. Both were sufficiently bad, but Boer coffee is simply execrable. Compounded of various mixtures in which ground mealies bear a large proportion and some coffee, which is often roasted at home, this concoction is both meat and drink, and it is said to be in consequence of their drinking it so many times a day that the Boer women attain to such gigantic proportions as they frequently do in middle life and sometimes in youth also.

After breakfast came a surprise, and I ceased to wonder at my lively visitors in the still hours of the night before when I discovered that in two corners of the dining room, under the two arrangements of shelves or whatnots, were two hens sitting on eggs. Moreover, the other hens and young chickens wandered in and out from the stoep at their own sweet will. In this particular household it seemed the rule to begin to think of preparing dinner when everybody felt very hungry, and we did not dine before half past 8 o'clock.

Among the people you see young girls, fresh looking and rather pretty, but they grow terribly fat or miserably thin with increasing age. I have seen ugly old women in different parts of the world, but beyond doubt for utter and hopeless ugliness the aged Dutch vrouw carries the palm.

Grinnell, Iowa, Nov. 3.—Prof. George D. Herron of Iowa college, located in this city, Thursday sent in his resignation to a meeting of the trustees. The endowment of $85,000 by Mrs. Rand of Burlington for a chair of applied Christianity will stand, the trustees having acceded to Mrs. Rand's wishes regarding it. The professor in his resignation says he is no longer willing to embarrass the trustees by remaining, it having become apparent that his presence was hurting the school.

Lawyer's in Cuba.
It is not the easiest thing in the world to be admitted to the bar in Cuba. The indisputable requisite is a diploma from the University of Havana, which is a high-class law university. There are two ways of obtaining this. The applicant must either take the five-year course of else he must undergo an examination by the university the same as given to graduates. This diploma, under the old law, cost $500 in gold, and besides this the lawyer must pay $80 a year for the right to practice. The fee of $500 has recently been abolished by order of General Brucke.

LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

TELLS OF ANOTHER DEFEAT.

Report from Paris of Second Disaster to British Arms.

BOERS NOW OCCUPY COLENZO.

Their Forces, Under Gen. Lucas Meyer, Have Seized the Railway Line South of Ladysmith—Hope to Bring Great Britain to Terms.

Paris, Nov. 3.—The London correspondent of the Liberte says that the Boers in strong force, under Gen. Lucas Meyer, are occupying the town of Colenso, twenty miles south of Ladysmith, thus completely investing the latter place.

Gen. Meyer, according to the correspondent, now holds the railway from Ladysmith to Pietermaritzburg and Durban.

The correspondent adds that Gen. Meyer took part in Monday's battle, but continued his flanking movement until he reached Colenso.

The result was renewed fighting south of Ladysmith, in which the British lost 1,000 in killed, wounded and prisoners.

London, Nov. 3.—Ladysmith was again shelled yesterday, according to an official dispatch issued by the war office. The bulletin does not make the statement in so many words, but it states that Lieut. Egerton of the Powerful was hit by a shell and dangerously wounded, so it is considered quite probable that the Boers not only shelled White's position yesterday but have been shelling it persistently for several days. The only surprising thing is that more British casualties are not reported.

It was also officially announced that the wires between Ladysmith and Pietermaritzburg were cut some time on Wednesday. The exact point where they were severed is not indicated, but it was probably between Ladysmith and Colenso, the nearest point.

The news does not necessarily prove that the Boers have surrounded the town and closed in the force, for wires are easily vulnerable and susceptible to interruption at any point by a single man with an axe or cutting pliers.

However, it is most probable that the Boers have placed themselves upon the British line of communication, repeating exactly the tactics used at Dundee.

Since the wires are cut it is most likely that the Boers have also seized the railways. This action was reported as accomplished on Monday and was later denied.

Gen. Joubert undoubtedly means to capture Gen. White's force if possible, as the Boers are hoping that such a turn of affairs will bring Great Britain to terms or lead the continent to intervene.

Everything for the next few days, therefore, centers around the fate of Ladysmith, holding, as it does, the main British army and immense supplies of ammunition and food. It is a critical point.

The strength of the Boers in Natal is still unknown to the British, but it is estimated at 16,000 and might be 30,000 or even more than the latter figure, as the indications are that the Boers are concentrating upon the vital point and perhaps weakening the outlying detachments at such points as Mafeking and Kimberley.

The Daily News' special cable from Ladysmith on Tuesday gives the first detailed account of the happenings since Monday's fight, and says the fusiliers and Gloucesters' lost nearly 200 killed and wounded before they surrendered.

Gen. Kock, who was seriously wounded at Elands-laagte, died in the hospital at Ladysmith last night. It is now learned that he had fifteen killed, including two officers, and 100 wounded on Monday. There is little doubt that the enemy suffered to a greater extent. At Rietfontein they acknowledge a loss of seventy-three killed and 200 wounded, and had, into the bargain, several hundred horses killed.

White's present force includes ten battalions of infantry, totalling 7,000 men with the losses deducted; a naval brigade of not over 750, part of which it is understood is left at Colenso to guard the railway.

Thus White's infantry force is about 6,500. Added to this he has three regiments of cavalry, which, after allowing for losses, amount to perhaps 1,000; the Imperial Light Horse, 500; and various Natal forces, 1,000. He has thirty-six field guns, manned by 800 men; two guns captured at Elands-laagte, eight Natal guns, five naval twelve-pounders and four six-inch rapid fires.

This makes a total of 9,800 men and fifty-four guns, so that it is easy to see that the British are outnumbered two to one or more.

The artillery is nearly equal, a slight advantage if any being on the British side. The only re-enforcements really near are the garrisons at Pietermaritzburg and Colenso, which are under 2,500 together.

The war office figures that if White can hold out for two weeks, and the British can command the railway, sufficient re-enforcements to make an equal showing against the Boers will be then available.

The report that Buller had left Cape Town for Durban is still unconfirmed, but is causing a lot of speculation.

It is stated in Rome that British troops will be permitted by Portugal to land at Lourenço Marques, but it is explained that this does not imply a cession of Delagoa bay to Great Britain.

The lists of casualties containing additions to previous lists are being issued by the war office in bewildering succession, making it almost impossible to do anything but make approximate estimates of the total losses.

The amended list of the losses of the Royal Irish and the Dublin fusiliers at Dundee shows apparently eighty-six fresh casualties.

The losses of the Monday fighting, hitherto reckoned at 100, are now known at the war office, but are not to be made public until verified. It is feared that they will prove much heavier than was at first suspected, and, indeed, it is claimed in certain quarters that they reach a total of 800.

If this is correct, the total British losses to date of killed, wounded, captured, and missing will reach 3,000, a figure even larger than the British estimates of the Boer losses.

The arrival of the channel squadron at Gibraltar is construed by the British press, in spite of recent assurances that the alleged Russian-French conspiracy is merely talk, as an event of considerable strategic and political importance, as the present situation undoubtedly calls for anxious watchfulness on the part of Great Britain.

The war in the Transvaal has not only curtailed the military resources of the empire to a large extent, but has also placed Great Britain in a position of greater disadvantage than it has been at any time since the Crimean war.

The fact that a complete army corps will be aloft in a few days, and that Great Britain's continental rivals are watching for the earliest opportunity to take advantage of its position, renders it necessary that the British fleets be so disposed that they can, if need be, strike swiftly and surely at any power that presumes to aim a blow at British interests in India, China, Africa or Egypt.

Kimberley Still Holds Out.

Hopetown, Cape Colony, Nov. 3.—Magistrate Harmsworth has arrived from Klipdam and reports that there are 6,000 Boers around Kimberley and all the roads are strictly patrolled. He says he passed close enough to Kimberley to see the searchlights, and was informed that the defenders of Kimberley were satisfied they could hold out, but were wearied with the inactivity and hoped a relieving force would soon arrive.

Stories of Boer victories have spread rapidly among the western border and Magistrate Harmsworth estimates that over half the Dutch residents of Bechuanaland and Griqualand will join the Boers after the declaration of annexation.

Alarming Reports Reach Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 3.—The New York Journal correspondent cables: "A report is current here that Ladysmith has fallen and that the greater part of Gen. White's army has been slain and the rest taken prisoners by the Boers. It is also reported that Kimberley has capitulated and that Rhodes has been taken prisoner."

"The bubonic plague, it is said, has broken out around Delagoa bay."

Canada Offers More Troops.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 3.—The cabinet has decided to cable to the British government an offer to raise another Canadian contingent for Africa, leaving it open to the imperial war office to say what force should be sent. Gen. Hutton has plans prepared for the prompt mobilization of an entire brigade of infantry, cavalry and artillery 5,000 strong.

Test for Great Britain.

London, Nov. 3.—Lord Roberts, inspecting a battalion at Kilkenny ordered to the front, said there was no disguising the fact that Great Britain was engaged in a very serious war, which would put her courage and resources to a severe test, "but," added his lordship, "we look for victory under such able leaders as Buller and White."

For Second Army Corps.

London, Nov. 3.—Again it is asserted at Aldershot that the mobilization of a second army corps will begin Nov. 10, and that the whole reserves of the transport branch of the army service corps will be called out.

Interference Not Planned.

Rome, Nov. 3.—It is officially denied in Rome that the continental powers contemplate any collective action in restraint of British operations in Delagoa bay.

REPORT ON PHILIPPINES.

Commissioners Tell of the Situation in the Islands.

AMERICA MUST NOT RETIRE.

In the Judgment of Those Who Have Made Investigation the Filipinos Are Incapable of Self-Government; and Will Be for Years to Come.

commander for general co-operation with the Americans, if desired. The consul-general was advised to tell Aguinaldo to go to Hongkong as soon as possible. The necessity for haste was due to the fact that the squadron had been ordered to leave Hongkong the next day, because of the declaration of war. Aguinaldo did not reach Hongkong until after the fleet sailed. He did not meet the admiral until after Manila was at the mercy of the American fleet.

As early as March 1 it was reported by the consul at Manila that an insurrection had broken out against Spain, and 5,000 armed rebels were camped near the city and would be loyal to the Americans in case of war. Then Aguinaldo, who had been brought from Hongkong, was allowed to land for the purpose of strengthening the forces of the United States and weakening those of the enemy. There were no preconcerted operations or combined movement by the forces of the United States and the Filipinos against those of Spain.

Soon after this Aguinaldo conceived the idea of independence for the natives, and issued a proclamation promising freedom to the natives on behalf of this government. He had no authority for such action, and freely admitted neither Dewey nor any one else had given him such promises. The rebel leader wanted to loot Manila and take the arms from the Spanish, but was not permitted to do so. A considerable portion of the Filipino congress wanted to appeal to the president not to abandon the Filipinos. At the same time preparations for war were going on. The commission says there was nothing to do when the attack was made on the outposts of the American army but to meet force with force.

It then goes on to tell of the reign of terror in the country after the fighting began and devotes a large portion of its report to the good effects of its proclamation promising to grant as large a measure of liberty as was consistent with the ends of government, subject only to the recognition of the sovereignty of this government, and the efforts to conciliate Aguinaldo, all of which failed. The commission concludes by saying the object of the struggle is not for liberty, as pretended by Aguinaldo, but for a continuation of his despotic rule. It assures the people nothing was omitted to secure a peaceful end of the struggle, but the opportunities offered the rebels were neglected, if not spurned.

Paris, Nov. 3.—In a collision on Wednesday near Thours ten employees of the railroad company were killed and fifteen injured.
